Hand-drawn sketches of various objects, including a box, a cylinder, and several small rectangular blocks, arranged in rows.

Hand-drawn sketches of various types of seeds or fruits, including round, oval, and elongated shapes, some with internal structures visible.

A photograph of a document page showing a grid of small, dark, rectangular marks, possibly representing data points or a barcode. The marks are arranged in several rows and columns, with some marks appearing more prominent than others. The background is light and slightly textured.

Hand-drawn sketches of various plant structures, including stems, leaves, and flower parts, labeled with letters A through Z.
